

A SSO-sponsored Young Swiss Ophthalmologist's congress experience

4th European Meeting of Young Ophthalmologists

To inspire Young Swiss Ophthalmologists (YSO) and to strengthen their fascination for ophthalmology, the SOG-SSO has offered their YSO members a raffle to win a ticket for the European Meeting of Young Ophthalmologists (EMYO). Lucky winner was med. pract. Shalini Banerjee, Kantonsspital Luzern (LUKS).

The meeting took place in Brussels. The motto of the 2022 congress which had been postponed twice, was: «Practical Approach to Ophthalmology». Sponsor of the event was Théa Pharma. Shalini Banerjee returned with a bunch of valuable impressions. She wrote:

«The 4th European Meeting of Young Ophthalmologists held on 9th to 10th July in Brussels was a wonderful experience! From amazing talks to fascinating presentations, from motivational speakers to thought-provoking discussions it was truly an inspiring weekend. During lecture breaks it was a pleasure to meet other residents from around Europe and it was interesting to share our experiences and ideas. Another fun and relaxed possibility for this was during the networking event surrounded by delicious food and a beautiful ambiance.

Also having several opportunities to listen and to talk directly with seasoned researchers and clinicians were unforgettable moments.

As a 2nd year resident this conference truly opened my eyes to the world of Ophthalmology, and I look forward to participating next year again.» • (Red.)

Link to the EMYO:

Interested in more information? Read the extensive report of the EMYO 2022 meeting:

Networking Event: Dr. med. Jelena Potic, PhD (left), surgical fellow at the Hôpital Jules-Gonin at Lausanne and Chair elect of European Young Ophthalmologists Committee, presented «Comparison of training programmes in ophthalmology in Europe», Evelyne Barth (sponsor Théa Pharma, middle), med. pract. Shalini Banerjee (right).